

Please find below a list of links to collection items and websites featured in our workshop today, that can be passed on to delegates.

Sacred Texts resources for schools can be requested via the first link.

As mentioned, delegates are more than welcome to contribute further to the Google Jamboard about the Sutra for the Illiterate if they wish to.

Website links featured in the British Library's NASCRE workshop:

Request Sacred Texts KS2/3 learning resources

Discovering Sacred Texts \(GCSE Resources here also\)

British Library Treasures

Sikh priest reading the Grunth, Umritsur

Maulidi: kasida \(poem\) performance from Zanzibar

Sutra for the Illiterate

Google Jamboard link \(Sutra for the Illiterate question feedback\)

We'd be grateful to receive any feedback from delegates on the workshop in due course.

The PowerPoint we used and emailed to you previously has our presenter notes on and there may be certain slides we can't share for copyright reasons.

If delegates are keen to receive the slides, please could they email learning@bl.uk and we could look into the possibility of sharing a redacted PDF version.

Thanks again for having us!

Best wishes,

Annika